Indigenous Datathon 2025 - code of conduct

The Indigenous Datathon provides a harassment-free experience for everyone regardless of gender, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, age, religion or technology choices.

We do not tolerate discrimination, harassment of any kind. We do not tolerate behaviour that is disrespectful to our staff or participants or that excludes, intimidates, or causes discomfort to others. If a participant engages in inappropriate behaviour, they will be asked by staff to stop and are expected to comply immediately.

The Indigenous Datathon organisers reserve the right to remove a participant from an activity or event where unacceptable behaviour has occurred. Everyone who participates in the Datathon is required to conform to this code of conduct. Please report any issues directly to a staff member (identifiable by their polo shirts).
