CHE Writing Retreat

We are pleased to announce that we have secured a venue for our upcoming CHE Writing Retreat for 2017 for Early- to Mid-Career researchers (including research students) who are planning to submit publications in the next 6-12 months.

The retreat will offer attendees with a relaxed, comfortable space where they may focus on writing away from daily distractions. This will provide participants the chance to learn from experienced mentors and to form peer groups with other colleagues.

The 2-day retreat includes accommodation, catering, meeting room and breakout rooms. If you are interested in attending please get prior approval from your supervisor by Friday 11th August and complete the following table.

Your Name
Status at commencement of retreat (eg, first draft version, final draft, draft for co-authors comments)

Do you have any suggestions for the structure or resources you would find useful to have provided at the retreat (eg editing expertise, review from senior staff, sessions presented on 'how to write' or 'where to publish')
