Lauren French (She/Her) is a proud Karajarri woman. Lauren is a Sexologist and Head of Education & Community Development with Body Safety Australia, a not-for-profit organisation specialising in child sexual abuse prevention, LGBTQIA+ equity and inclusivity, consent, and respectful relationships education.

Since 2017 Lauren has facilitated thousands of workshops across early childhood, primary and secondary schools spaces with children, educators and families.

Along with her bachelors in Psychology, Lauren holds a Master's of Sexology and has previously worked clinically as a Sexologist with the Australian Institute of Sexology and Sexual Medicine. Lauren is also a member of the Society of Australian Sexologists (SAS) and the Australian & New Zealand Mental Health Association.

She was also the proud recipient of the 2023 Indigenous Achievement award in the 7News Young Achiever Awards (Victoria), named one of Out for Australia's 2023 30 under 30 winners, and received a 2023 Churchill Fellowship.

Body Safety Australia is a child-safe organisation. The organisation is committed to keeping children and young people safe by empowering the whole community in prevention education. They value and empower children and young people's voices in their programs and create a safe space that supports all persons to disclose.
